Be my limbs

Left Leg

1. Get high up on something sturdy
2. Dismount with a flourish (be careful of your feet darling, I've heard they're quite fragile)
3. Pirouette until dizzy
4. sprawl on the ground and allow your spine to splay out,

your eyes may be saccading from the spins

Marvel at how large everything is from all the way down here.

Right leg:

1. Stand up, get your coat, we're going for a walk.
2. Get a found object (stick, rod, something strong)
3. drag it through the mud, snow, ground
make your mark
4. Think of the passers-by who will think 'why?'
5. Consecrate this ground

erect found object as a standard on the hill of y(our) whimsy, friend;

Marvel at the randomness.

Left hand:

1. We're off to find a liminal space.

Stairwells, stoops,

Stairs are for sitting now.

Imagine you're lounging

Think about saying goodbye to someone

Say something poignant

Doorways, thresholds,

Stand as if you're trying to impress someone.

Think about saying hello to someone

Say something memorable

Marvel at how much life happens here.

Right hand:

1. Go inside,
2. Find someone you love

Ask if you may caress them

Do it.

Marvel at how tender this is.
